SPORT has an odd way of hooking up time and space. On one night lately we ran across an Australian sportsman in New York, who felt fairly confident that Jack Bromwich and Dinny Pails could take pretty good care of the Davis cup next December. Next we had lunch with Beals Wright, the famous

U. S. tennis star. Wright defeated both Norman Brookes and Tony Wilding on Australian turf in Davis cup play back in 1908, when they were considered unbeatable, although Australia retained the cup 3-2.

Grantland Rice Here was a gap of 38 years in time and 12,000 miles in space with the Davis cup the main item of conversation.

"I think we have an excellent chance to hold the cup," our Australian friend said. "Bromwich is good but in my opinion 19-year-old Dinny Pails is even better. Or he will be better with the 9 or 10 months of play and training he has left before next December. Some good advice from Sir Norman Brookes won't hurt. Bromwich is still in good form, an excellent player and a stout competitor. And we may have others by the cup date."

"Against this strong Australian pair the U. S. must bank largely on Frank Parker, Billy Talbot and possibly Kramer and Schroeder if they can get out of service in time to reach former form. You will discover no Big Bill or Little Bill in this group—the pair who brought the cup home in 1920 after World War I. But it will be an experienced team that can at least put up a good front."

Beals Wright—and 1908

"Australia and 1908 are a long way and a long time back," Beals Wright remarked. "We took a foolish gamble because only Fred Alexander and myself made the trip. I kept wondering what would happen if either of us should get sick or injured. We had no substitute. I had two great matches with Norman Brookes and Tony Wilding and was lucky to be at my best in both contests."

"Unless conditions have changed the U. S. team must be ready to face two important factors. One is the intense heat in December. When we played the temperature was 115 degrees. While it was a dry heat, still 115 is what you might call a bit warm. I recall an intense desire to take a drink of water through the matches, which, of course, I couldn't do. You shouldn't drink any water or anything else while the play is on.

"The second factor is the turf. Australian turf is quite different from ours and England's, where the grass has a much lighter or thinner texture. Australian turf is much stronger, much more rugged. This means your spikes are likely to stick, affecting your ankles and your leg muscles. I don't think my legs were ever quite as sore. I had to go in for rubber-soled shoes."

Beals Wright is the son of the late George Wright, who played shortstop on the unbeaten Reds of 1869, a team that won 55 games, lost none and was tied once.

George Wright played professional ball until he retired in 1876, the year that gave birth to the National league. He was also a brilliant cricketer and a good golfer late in life.

Calls Tilden Greatest

I asked Beals to name the greatest tennis player he had ever seen in his 40-odd years of competition and observation.

"I've seen many great ones," he said. "The Doherty brothers — Brookes and Wilding — Larned — McLoughlin — Billy Johnston — the French stars, especially Cochet — the best that have come along since 1900. But the top man is still Bill Tilden in my opinion. Tilden had both speed and power on the court. As far as I could see he had no weakness in his championship years. He had amazing stamina. In addition to this Tilden had unusual court generalship. He was one of the few men I've seen in sport who could let down and then pull himself back. He had the art of keeping his opponent off balance, both mentally and physically. No one ever knew what was coming next."

Honesty Pays Off

Several years ago Hurry-Up Yost, Michigan's famous football coach, made over 200 addresses in one season to high school and university gatherings.

The theme of his many talks was this—"Honesty is the best investment."

"I wanted to prove," he told me, "that honesty was not only the best policy—but that it also paid huge dividends in every way. In other words—that you could make more money being honest."

EASTER SEAL DRIVE UNTIL APRIL 21

More than eighty million Easter seals have been put on sale or in the mail in Massachusetts' second annual campaign to benefit the crippled and handicapped of all ages, sex, color or creed. These seals are being sold under the auspices of the Bay State Society for the Crippled and Handicapped, an affiliate of the National Society for Crippled Children, but acting solely within the limits of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. Parker Trowbridge of Worcester is the president and other officers and members of the Easter Seal committee include some of the most prominent men and women in the state.

Checks for seals may be sent to the state headquarters of the Bay State society, 340 Main street, Worcester, where Charles S. Wilson is director of Easter seals.

Money from the sale of Easter seals in Massachusetts will be used to provide service which existing agencies are unable to offer the crippled child or adult. Not one cent will be spent to duplicate the work of any existing organization, either public or private. The Easter seal itself, done in typical Easter colors, portrays a crippled child wistfully glancing at a bird about to fly. The seals are tangible evidence of support of a comprehensive program to aid crippled children and adults to become useful and well adjusted citizens.

Award School Coal Contracts

The three coal companies that submitted bids for the contracts for the school coal supply estimated the same amounts for each type of coal to be ordered. $10.83 per ton for the New River coal and $10.19 for the "Run of the Mine" type. These amounts were also the same as last year's price. Because Carroll and Connelly was the only out-of-town company that submitted an estimate, the contracts were voted to the two local firms, Cross Coal Company and Bernard L. McDonald Company at the school committee meeting Tuesday night. Six members were present to vote.

The contracts total about 450 to 500 tons of the cheaper coal and about 150 tons of the New River.

RED CROSS 23% OVER QUOTA

On March 26, Howell M. Stillman, chairman of the Andover Red Cross drive, wrote the following letter to chapter chairman C. Carleton Kimball.

Dear Carleton:

Andover has gone over the top again! Yesterday, I received word from Mrs. Buchan reporting that $15,200 actual cash had been received and that in sight there was the sum of $1,600 certain, bringing the total subscriptions to yesterday to $16,800. I have had each committee chairman questioned and find that all of them had made rather complete reports, there being only one or two subscriptions not yet obtained, and the chairmen are being asked to remit any remaining collections direct to Mr. Ripley.

I think, therefore, that I can report to you that I have completed my assignment to direct the campaign, and I am very pleased to report that we did so well. A copy of my letter to you is being given to Mr. Mondale so that it may be read to the Service club at its meeting Thursday evening, since they sponsored this campaign and will be pleased to know of the favorable results.

It has been a pleasure to have been of some service, and I have appreciated the opportunity given me.

Sincerely yours,
HOWELL M. STILLMAN,
1946 Fund Chairman

However, at the Red Cross meeting in headquarters, Wednesday afternoon, Mr. Stillman announced that the amount of cash and pledges now turned in has risen to $18,500, making Andover already 23% over its quota of $15,100. This is not the final report, as the drive will continue until the end of the month, and it is expected that the final figure will approximate $19,500. Mr. Stillman is still hoping for an even $20,000, and with the hard work contributed by the volunteer workers and with the generous response with which the drive was met, there is a possibility that his goal will be realized.

Added to the list of workers printed in last week's issue are the following who have freely donated their time and efforts toward house-to-house canvassing or toward making sure that the desk in the Red Cross rooms was covered during the drive:

Mrs. Roscoe E. Dake, Mrs. Foster Barnard, Mrs. Harry Emmons, Mrs. James Eaton, Mrs. Douglas Dunbar, Mrs. A. Graham Baldwin, Mrs. J. J. Tavern, Mrs. William Hughes, Mrs. Bertrand Peck, Mrs. Joseph Ladd, Mrs. Henry La Rosa, Mrs. Irving Humphries, Mrs. Justin Rex, Mrs. William Edmonds, Mrs. Sam Wright and Mrs. Irving Wilkinson.

BUCKIN' FOR A JOB OVERHEARD AT A RECENT GRASS FIRE:

A young lady, who must have been all of six years old, strolled up to a man in civilian clothes and said:

"Would you like to be Fire Chief?"

Said the man, with some emphasis, "No!"

The little blonde tried again:

"Why wouldn't you?"

"Well, I'll tell you, I have to make a living."

And then C. Edward Buchan continued about the business of putting out the fire.

At a pretty all-white ceremony in Holy Rosary church in Lawrence recently, Miss Grace R. DiSalvo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph DiSalvo of 19 Middle street, became the bride of Augustine J. Salvetti, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Salvetti of 166 Chestnut street, Lawrence.

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a gown of white slipper satin with fitted bodice and full skirt en train and a veil of illusion caught with a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a prayer-book adorned with a white orchid and stephanotis.

Her maid of honor, Miss Mary G. Salvetti, was gowned in white net and a beaded Juliette cap and spray of red snapdragons, blue iris and yellow daisies completed her costume. Mrs. Phyllis DiSalvo and Mrs. Lillian Salvetti both wore bridesmaids' gowns of white marquisette with matching headdresses and carried sprays of red snapdragons.

John DiSalvo was best man, and the ushers were Domenic Stabile and Julio Salvetti.

A reception followed the ceremony at Hibernian hall, during which the couple left on a wedding trip to New York. They will make their home at 19 Middle street.

Miss Annabelle Richardson of 4 Pynchard avenue is one of twenty-two residents of Massachusetts who contributed a combined total of forty-five packages of food and used clothing that was sent overseas through the Foster Parents' Plan for War Children.

The plan is caring for children of fourteen different nationalities and on receipt of an application, the foster parent receives as soon as possible a photograph and brief history of the child and pays $15 per month for his support. More than 40,000 children of all nationalities have been helped by the Foster Parents' Plan since its inception nine years ago. American headquarters of the plan are at 55 West 42nd street, New York City.

HEATWAVE WINTERS IN ANDOVER

OUR COVER

From a veterinarian's headache to the darling of the grandstands has been a long, knee-splitting saga of the life of Heatwave. He is shown at his new rest home on Salem street, receiving the admiring look of his caretaker and groom, Eddie Curtis, and he looks slightly amused recalling that at one time he had no buyers at $100 while last year his present owner, Mr. John Keefe, calmly refused a sum of $8,000 for him. It is now said of Heatwave that he is a good hot tip.

Heatwave is a race horse and watching him wandering unfettered around the grounds of the Riding Academy on Salem street, formerly owned by Lyle Phillips, it is difficult to imagine to what ends the Fates that watch over a horse's destiny had to go, to battle the Jinx that sat on his knees during the first years of his life's saga. The calmness with which he accepts his kingship at the stables seems to indicate that Heatwave was born a favorite, that he had lived a dramatic life, petted by his owners and cheered by the racing fans. He has a haughty mien, with no obvious traces of humbleness, evidence that he had come up the hard way and had not been sure of his life from one day to another.

He has climbed into his new role with great self-possession and his position of favoritism is challenged by nothing more significant than a donkey, a black-and-white spotted dog and a friendly, nuzzling little goat that have never been lined up at a starting position. He feels quite secure, especially when he hears Mr. Keefe, his owner and trainer, say of him fondly, "He's a good meal ticket." In race-track vernacular that is a commendation of the highest degree. It's better, even, than saying, "You're out of this world."

John Keefe has been a horse trainer since way back. He has rented the ex-riding academy because it is an excellent rest home for the twenty-three race horses he has on the premises and, just incidentally, Heatwave likes it there.

When Heatwave first came to Mr. Keefe's attention he was not an impressive sight. A Mr. Carr and Mr. Metcalf were dickering over the price of another horse, which was set at $3,300, when the deal was finally closed at $3,500 with another horse thrown in. The other horse was Heatwave. The unwanted Heatwave showed himself to be very fast in workouts, but while he was running he barked his shins, bowed a tendon and a good-sized blister appeared on his foot. The Jinx was on. The owners sent him to Mr. Keefe, then in Burlington, Vermont, where he was examined by a veterinarian.

"A bad risk," said the vet, shaking his head, and Heatwave set about proving himself to be just that by getting in the way of another horse's kick, which landed him in the midst of a stone pile. This time the vet was not so tactful in his comments. He called to find out if there was any demand for dog meat. It looked as if Heatwave's goose was cooked. A young boy came to the stables to ride the patient to his slaughter, but fortunately the way went by some trucks and Heatwave had no use for trucks. To the horse, his pride was not injured nearly as much by the prospects of his execution as by the fact that he was supposed to pass those horseless vehicles. He rebelled. All the king's horses and all the king's men couldn't budge him by those trucks. He was brought back to the stable to think it over. He thought it over for five days, and in the meantime the trucks went their own way. Again it looked as if the fatal hour had come. He was supposed to be picked up on a Sunday, but no one came to fetch him. In the meantime the ban was put on horsemeat and nobody wanted Heatwave dead or alive.

After three weeks time, the owners again began to take interest in him and inquired about his running time. The trainer persisted in his opinion that the horse worked fast and showed promise, so it was decided that he should have another chance. As an experiment, he was given Vita-ray treatments and then was sent to Rockport. Here he was put in a separate corral and given every care, but Heatwave was apparently enjoying a life of chronic invalidism and, to insure this status, he leaped over the fence and split his knee. The veterinarian stitched him up prettily and in the spring he was turned out to grass. Heatwave apparently wasn't too choosy about what he put in his mouth and picked up some poison in his system. The knife hung over him again. Mr. Carr bought out Metcalf's half interest and gave the vet a sizable check for his efforts. The doctor, having faith in the horse's will to live, said he wouldn't cash the check if Heatwave couldn't undergo his training. Mr. Keefe took him back again and because of the horse's doubtful appearance, used to cover him well with a blanket and sneak him out early in the morning to exercise—safe from the curious eyes of other trainers. He traveled to Rockingham and to Narragansett. Mr. Carr insisted upon seeing him in action, so, although Mr. Keefe said the horse wasn't ready to race, he was entered and came in sixth. Seven days later, he was entered again and was running second when he became provoked at the sight of a cross path in the track and, with characteristic originality, jumped over it instead of minding his own business and taking it in his stride. It could be said that he came in first if the race was in the opposite direction. As it was, he distinguished himself by coming in last.

Mr. Carr was completely disgusted and felt that Heatwave was more trouble and expense than he was worth. Mr. Keefe tried to sell him, but there were no takers. He finally bought him himself for $100. In Rockingham, he had to be taken out of his first race because he developed colic. There was very little in the way of horse ailments that Heatwave didn't dabble in. But still Mr. Keefe kept his faith. He convinced the jockey that Heatwave could run—and fast. He was finally entered. Heatwave must have had a change of conscience and decided it was time to cut out the tom-foolery. He came in second and those risky people who like "long shots" were rewarded with $74 in the middle and $22 at the end. The next race he ran was in the mud, but having tasted victory, Heatwave smacked his lips and came in first by ten lengths.

When he was running in a $2,000 claiming race, Mr. Keefe asked Mr. Carr to claim him, but the former owner was still bitter. No dice. In the next 31 days, Heatwave ran six times, with two wins and four seconds. Last year he totaled 18 starts, with 16 times in the money. So now it is Heatwave's turn to whinny, and the moral to the tale is "he who laughs last gives a good horse-laugh."

Since the fifteenth of September, Heatwave and his fellow racers at the Andover stables have been training diligently and soon they will be sent to Narragansett to try out their legs again. Any morning they can be seen exercising in the Salem street area where they have been resting since Rockingham closed in November. Heatwave looks trim and shiny for his 1946 debut and it would not be surprising to hear of him rearing on his hind legs to take a bow when the judges pronounce him a winner.

WHERE TO GO ..AND WHEN

By the Numbers

The Gentlemen of World War II obviously believe in Crystal-capering, as both the Legion and the newly organized AMVETS have plans for dances during the month of May. The Legion committee, with William D. Barrow, chairman, assisted by James

M. O'Hagan, John McDonald, Joseph Barrett, Mrs. William Bonner and Miss Anne Hathaway, are selling tickets for their dance at Crystal ballroom, with Frankie Kahn's orchestra, on the second of May, while the AMVETS will swing and tussle to Roland Russell on the 16th, the price of the tickets being the same bargain at 70 cents including tax.

Curtain Call

When a woman can hold the stage for a whole evening and, without any help from anyone, keep her audience entertained for the same length of time, she has to be good, and Dorothy Crawford is even better than that. She comes under the classification of excellent, and she will make her local appearance at George Washington hall at 8:15, April 5.

A world-famous monologist, Miss Crawford portrays all types of people from all countries from all walks of life, and her characterizations are as real as the experiences from which she draws her up-to-the-minute material.

Needed: More Than a Sign

We're not sure who's responsible for it, but we assume that it's the State Department of Public Works that installed that very gaudy orange traffic sign on Main street as a welcome to Phillips Academy's beautiful campus. It's been there a month or so now, and we've passed it many times, but we still wince every time we see it.

Something more permanent and more sightly should be done to remedy the condition for which the sign was erected. The traffic hazard at the campus is a very serious one, and it would be unfortunate to wait until a really bad accident took place there. The main road at the head of School street has a particularly bad bend in it which offers no protection for either cars or pedestrians, but the narrowness of the road caused by the wide area of grass at the front of the campus makes an even more serious traffic condition, especially if any passing out is attempted. The grass reservation itself is a relic of the old street-car days, and has no particular purpose.

The State Department should do something very shortly; it shouldn't be too difficult to rearrange the road at that point and at Salem street so that traffic would be much safer, and motorists could enjoy the full beauty of Phillips Academy.

The Finance Committee

We have a new Finance Committee, and we hope that we're going to have a new conception of a Finance Committee. It would seem that there could be a much more vital place in the administration of the town for this particular board.

The theory under which previous committees have conducted themselves seems to have been that they existed purely as an advisory council for the Town Meeting. They met in several sessions before the annual town meeting, at that time going over the various budgets and the special articles. Many of the town's voters felt that a much more active and year-round exercise of these advisory powers should be indulged in by the Finance Committee. It is not easy in a few brief meetings at the year's end to decide whether a budget is too big or too small. If a committee had the opportunity during the course of the year to analyze the expenditures as they are being made it would be a much more valuable body in the town's administration.

The new committee consists of three members of the former committee and four new members. Taken individually, they are excellent choices for a committee like this, since they represent a good cross-section of the opinion of the town.

It is hoped that as a body they will act in such a way that the best talents of each are available in the town's best interests. Too often on too many boards, just a few men dominate, whereas each member should feel that it is his duty to have an independent part in all the discussions and decisions.

State Primary

The State Primary has been moved up to June 18th, which gives us less time than we usually have to nominate good candidates for County, State and National offices. In fact, just one month remains in which to file papers, the closing date being April 30th.

In a comparatively small town like Andover, we can't have a great deal to say about what names should appear on the ballot for State officers and for Congressional and Senatorial candidates. However, county officers will appear on the primary ballot, and it's time that we here in Andover did something to make sure that some of the better potentialities in Essex County run for these County offices. We have seen some of the names already mentioned; we couldn't help but think that Essex County could do a great deal better. The County positions are important ones. Somewhere in the several cities and towns that make up the County there must be men whom we'd be proud to have in office.

There used to be an Essex County Republican Club. Maybe there still is, but it's so inactive that it might as well not exist. However, it should be revived, and the leading Republicans of our County should get together to see that some good candidates run for these offices. It would be unfortunate if we had to once again go to the polls faced with a list of candidates of whom we can choose only the lesser of several evils.

Convention-bound

Miss Helen Munroe of the faculty left Thursday to attend the two-day convention of the Classical association of New England at St. George's school, near Newport, R. I. She is vice-president of this organization, which is composed mainly of New England colleges and secondary school teachers of Latin and Greek.

Pseudonymphs

Following a long established custom, seniors, the college division of juniors, and a few sophomores spent March 8 writing essays for the Barnard Essay contest April 12. In order to insure utmost fairness in judging, the pupils were required to use pseudonyms. The seven essayists who will compete April 12 were discovered Thursday when they claimed their essays in assembly. They are as follows: seniors, Virginia Hardy, Fred McCollum, Warren Bell, Robert Moore; juniors, Richard Clough, Delighton Emmons, Patricia Collins.

Gift From Classes

Miss Cynthia Black and Miss Letitia Noss attended a Girl Reserve conference at the Y. W. C. A. in Boston, Saturday. Miss Noss is the president of the Girl Reserves at Punehard.

Photography Booms

It's amazing how many cameras there are in existence. One has only to go to Punehard some sunny noon hour to see the budding photographers with their Baby Brownies all aspiring to get their particular pals in the class book.

Take Extension Courses Without Leaving Town

Many Andover teachers are continuing their professional study right here in Andover by taking advantage of a Tufts college course entitled "Problems in Methods of Teaching." Mr. Demeritt A. Hiscoe of Lowell is the instructor. Those who are taking the present course are: Kenneth Sherman, Milton Blanchard, Carl Gahan, Charles Gregory, Katherine Sweeney, Olive Eldredge, Adeline Wright, Mary Leary, Ethel Anderson, Mary Burke, Dorothy Kyle, Eunice Stack, Alice Stack, William McDonald, Owen Hinckley, James Hart, Donald Dunn, Kenneth McKinry, Angie Dantos, Mary Collins, Benjamin Dimlich, Rita Foley and Catherine Barrett.

Although a local post of the American Veterans of World War II may be formed with a minimum of ten members, the Andover Post, No. 43, is holding its charter membership open until it receives a membership corresponding to the number by which the post is designated, 43. At the meeting in the Town Hall Wednesday night, it was announced that the number of members had reached 32 and the Post is hoping to boost its membership at the next regular meeting, April 2 at 7:30, in the court room.

Commander Joseph Serio opened the meeting and Wilfred Moriarty was elected permanent finance officer so that he would have authority to open a savings account in the name of the organization. Philip B. Thomas was also elected Post Librarian. A letter of acceptance and appreciation was read from the Service club thanking the AMVETS for their offer of assistance in the salvage drives.

Among other business discussed at the meeting were the plans for a dance in Crystal Ballroom on the 16th of May.

The national organization was established in December, 1944, at Kansas City, Mo., by a merger of a representative group of independent veterans organizations which covered practically every section of the country. The name was adopted from the American Veterans of World War II, Inc., Washington, D. C., which called the Kansas City conference and the more popular title AMVETS was first given the organization by a newspaper reporter.

Any American citizen, male or female, is eligible for membership who has regularly enlisted, was inducted or commissioned, or was accepted for, or was on active duty in the Army, Navy, Marine Corps or Coast Guard of the U. S., or of any of our allies on or after September 16, 1940 and who served between this date and the date of the cessation of hostilities, as established by the Government. Service with the armed forces must have been terminated by honorable discharge.

The annual dues of $5.00 are payable by the installment plan and 50c down payment will secure a membership in the Andover Post.

The AMVETS are dedicated to the development of a sound American program to promote the cause of perpetual peace and good will among nations and the dedication of the organization reads as follows:

The American Veterans of World War II believe in the America which we fought to preserve. We believe in the future of America and in the men and women who have made it great and who will make it greater. In this faith, we dedicate ourselves to the fullest development of the spiritual, mental, physical, economic, and human resources of the Nation.

To these ends, we resolve, and do dedicate ourselves to these ideals and pledge ourselves to their fulfillment.

Communication THANK YOU

March 22, 1946

Chairman, Board of Selectmen,
Andover, Massachusetts.

Dear Mr. Hardy:

As members of a committee appointed at the mass meeting of World War II Veterans, held at the Memorial auditorium on March 20, 1946, we were asked to express the whole-hearted appreciation and sincere thanks of all the Andover servicemen to you and through you to the citizens of Andover for all that has been done and is still being done for us.

The home town certainly was a great morale builder for each and every one of us during the gloomy years of the war, and its help to those getting out of the service during a critical period of readjustment is deserving of the greatest effort on our parts to be worthy of our privilege to live in such a fine town.

Faithfully yours,

Veterans Attention!

Did you know that your overseas registration may not be enough? The Secretary of State of the Commonwealth says that your voting registration while still in the service does not necessarily take the place of personal appearance. So be sure to check up your status and register when you return home, if you need to. Otherwise, you may find yourself unable to vote.

Also, be sure that you maintain a legal and voting address while you are in service or you may find that your state bonus will fall through one of the loopholes conveniently left in the bill.

Dear Friend and Customer:

Sometime ago I publicly announced I was going to retire from business. As of April 1st a group of my employees who have been with me for over twenty years are taking over the business of the J. E. Greeley Company. They will conduct the business in the same manner in which it has been conducted since it was formed, although it will be managed under a different name and ownership.

In order that I may close up the affairs of the J. E. Greeley Company as quickly as possible, so that I may take the much needed rest I have been looking forward to, I respectfully request all my customers to please settle their March accounts by the 10th of April if convenient. Accounts may be paid at the office of the store as usual, and all payments will be credited on the books of the J. E. Greeley Company.

I wish to take this opportunity to thank you for your generous patronage over the years it has been my pleasure to serve you. I am fully confident that the persons who have purchased the business of the J. E. Greeley Company will continue to give you the same type of service I have tried to provide. Were I twenty years younger, I would still be trying my best to fill your needs and I wouldn't be writing this letter.

The new owners have given me a great deal of happiness by their decision to use as the new name of the store the name that it formerly bore: "The Rockport Market."

Thanking you again I remain

Sincerely yours,

James E. Greeley

Dr. Dodge Discusses Bomb

Charging that the "wisdom of our statesmen has not kept up with the knowledge of our scientists," Dr. Homer L. Dodge, president of Norwich university, advocated at the Service club meeting this week that control of the atomic bomb be placed in civilian hands as "only through actual civilian control can we have adequate world control, bringing to an end the atomic armament race now in progress and giving us the national and international security we all seek."

"If some form of international control is not developed," Dr. Dodge told the Andover Service club, "the bomb will get out of hand and there will be only one sure future. The cities of men on earth will vanish."

The Norwich president was closely associated with the work which led to development of the atomic bomb through his war-time position as director of the Office of Scientific Personnel in Washington. This made him responsible for the placing of many of the physicists employed on this project. A member of the Policy committee of the American Institute of Physics, Dr. Dodge long has played a leading role in the advancement of knowledge in the field of physical science.

In his Andover address, the Norwich head deplored this country's lack of leadership in international affairs. "At the time that the whole world would gladly follow our leadership we are handling our internal as well as our external affairs in a manner that cannot inspire great confidence," he asserted.

"We should give up the idea of any form of control that will stifle scientific progress and defeat our own aims for defense," the speaker declared. "We should cease to talk in terms of war which serves only to promote an armament race of atomic bombs and other cataclysmic forms of warfare such as biological warfare. We must move from war, which now means destruction, to a world-wide control that must be powerful enough to prevent the use of atomic bombs or other world devastating weapons."

"The atomic bomb has made obsolete the present methods for waging war. It has forced us toward a control of the weapons of war. But as we read the papers each day we see that it has not yet stopped the talk of war, the race of the development of more diabolical means of waging war, nor has it done a thing toward eliminating the causes of war."

Discussing conclusions scientists have reached concerning the atomic bomb, Dr. Dodge enumerated in particular the following considerations:

"Present day atomic weapons might kill 30% or more of a country's population or destroy a major portion of its industry in a single attack lasting a few minutes."

"More powerful atomic bombs are in prospect."

"No effective defense can be expected."

"Dispersal of cities is the only defense idea so far advanced that is even temporarily practical."

"Other nations can have atomic bombs in three to five years. There are no 'big secrets.' The materials are available; the expense is not prohibitive."

"Out-producing the enemy is not much advantage. Five hundred bombs may be better than 100, but 50,000 are no better than 5,000, because 5,000 can do the job. A small, relatively poor nation, can defeat a larger, richer nation by attacking first."

"Fear of reprisals cannot be counted upon to prevent the use of atomic weapons, for a nation may evacuate its cities prior to attacking, or even attack anonymously."

TAKES "POT LUCK"

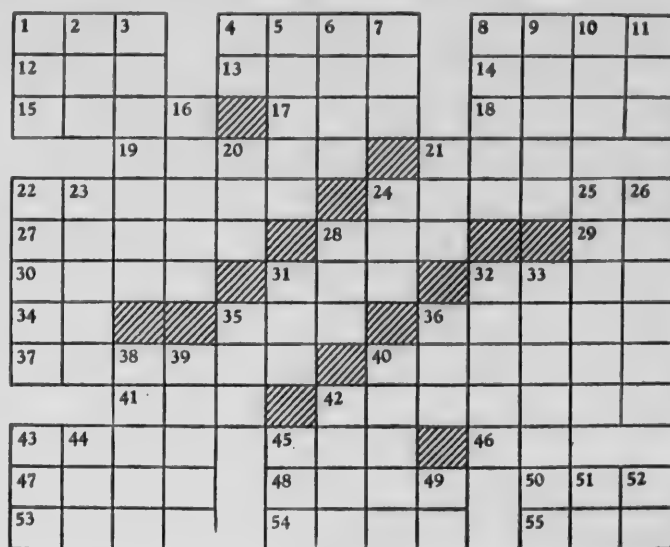

The North District Improvement association met on Thursday evening in the North school. A "Pot Luck" supper was enjoyed by the members and was followed by an interesting talk on "Better Gardening" by Carlton Stearns of the Essex Agricultural school faculty.

VALE P. T. A.

The Ballardvale Parent-Teacher association will meet April 4 and will have a white elephant sale following the business meeting.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

BY DREW PEARSON

HERBERT HOOVER HESITATED

WASHINGTON. — Secretary of Agriculture Clinton Anderson had a hard time at first persuading Herbert Hoover to come to Washington for the food conference. Anderson caught the ex-President at Key West, Fla., where he was fishing. "I've promised my family for seven years to take them fishing," Hoover told the secretary of agriculture, "and now at last here I am."

Anderson, however, emphasized the urgency of the food crisis.

"We need your experience and advice, Mr. President," he said. "You can go back to your fishing immediately afterward. But this is a time when your country needs you."

Hoover finally consented to come.

BRICKBATS WIN ELECTIONS

Two of the bitterest opponents on the house floor and in the interstate commerce committee are Representatives Clarence Brown, conservative Republican of Blancheseter, Ohio, and Vito Marcantonio, American Laborite of New York City. Off the floor, however, the two respect each other's ability and get along well.

Sitting in the house lobby the other day they smilingly concluded an agreement which will probably never be carried out.

They were talking about campaign expenses, when Brown proposed: "Vito, I've got a suggestion. Why don't we both cut our campaign expenses to the bone? Here's how to do it:

"You go into my district and make three speeches against me. Call me a reactionary. Hooverite, an isolationist, an economic royalist — and anything else you can think of. That'll elect me."

"Then I'll go into your district and make three speeches. I'll call you a Red, a Dago, a new dealer and an anti-Rankinite."

"With the proper literature about literature about me in your district, both of us are a cinch for reelection when we do that."

Marcantonio agreed that the idea had merit, and they shook hands on it.

NAZIS REMAIN IN GERMANY

A secret report on failure to defeat Germany has been made to the war department, but is considered so shocking that it probably will be destroyed. It is now in the office of Brig. Gen. Frank A. Meade.

The report shows complete failure to clean out high-ranking Nazis. It also shows a surprising number of so-called German "laborers" who have secretaries and stenographers assigned to them.

This is one of the latest dodges to get around the employment of Nazis by the American army. According to army rules, no former Nazi can be employed in any job more important than that of a "laborer." Result is that many Nazis are used in important jobs, but listed on the books as "laborers." That is why they are assigned secretaries and stenographers.

These "common laborers" are then put in charge of important manufacturing plants. The report now in the hands of the war department was made by the public safety and inspection division of military government. It may never see the light of day.

HOW WYATT DID IT

If there were more men like Housing Expediter Wilson Wyatt around, President Truman would have easier sailing. The other day in Chicago, Wyatt was guest speaker at a banquet of the National Association of home builders, 3,200 strong. All hostile, all prepared to boo at the man who proposed revolutionary building reforms in order to complete 3,000,000 homes in two years. As Wyatt arose, the atmosphere was charged with hostility. However, he told stories, explained his program, made no antagonistic statements.

"If you gentlemen are against this program, then you don't understand it," Wyatt said. "It's my fault for not making it clear."

After 45 minutes, having won over a considerable part of the audience, he stopped. Then for 45 minutes more he answered questions. Every inch of the way he fought for his program of low-cost housing for veterans.

Finally, when he finished, every builder in the huge dining room rose to his feet and cheered.

NOW WHITE SPAGHETTI

Some of the strongest opposition to the President's "dark bread" order is coming from an unexpected quarter — spaghetti manufacturers. Spaghetti, macaroni and mince are made from semolina.

FEEDING INFLATION

You know what happens ...

When you continue to spend more than you make and ...

Keep on borrowing to make up the difference!

You know too, that a big chunk of every dollar you earn and every dollar you spend goes to pay the cost of government.

That's why it's important for you to take a good look at the way the government spends your dollars.

Government should begin now to live within its means

During the war government necessarily spent huge sums of money. Yet, with the war over, the government plans to spend four times as much in the coming year as it spent in the highest pre-war year.

Most thoughtful people believe that government expenditures are now far greater than they need be.

They believe that government, like a family, should live within its means ... that it should not spend more than it takes in ... that it should not keep on going deeper into debt.

Yet that is exactly what's happening today. Our government is spending billions more than it takes in. And it continues to borrow to make up the difference.

This is the kind of money-handling that causes inflation.

Economy in government means money in your pocket

If the American people — through Congress — will reduce government spending and take steps to encourage production, inflation will be stopped ... and this is the only way it can be stopped.

Write your representatives in Congress today.

Urge them to cut the cost of government, eliminating all waste ... all unnecessary services ... and postponing all expenditures that can be put off until our war bills have been paid.

Urge them to make the government start living within its means ... at a level that you and your neighbors can afford to pay.

You'll see the results soon in the cost of everything that you buy ... food, clothing and everything else. And you'll be doing your country a real service.

YOUR DOLLARS ... a postcard to the National Association of Manufacturers, 14 West 49th Street, New York 20, N. Y., will bring your copy of this informative booklet on government spending—a subject which is all-important to you.

P. A. PUBLICATIONS WIN FIRST HONORS

(Special to the Eagle-Tribune)
NEW YORK, March 23 — "The Philliplian," the newspaper, and "The Mirror," the school literary magazine, published by the students of Phillips academy, Andover, were announced Thursday among the winners in a nationwide competition among school publications, conducted by the Columbia Scholastic Press association here.

"The Philliplian" took highest honors among newspapers of secondary private schools and "The Mirror" was ranked first among magazines in its division.

The competition, entered by publications of schools in nearly every part of the country, was conducted at Columbia university in connection with the annual three-day convention of the association, which began Thursday with nearly 3,000 student journalists present.

Awards to the winning publications, judged on the basis of make-up, typography and content, were made at a luncheon Saturday at the Hotel Astor.

Highest National Honors to Townsman Press Typography

To as fine a bunch of boys as you can find anywhere, our heartiest congratulations. It has been a pleasure and a privilege working with them in the production of their two prize-winning publications, The Philliplian and The Mirror.

And it's a source of satisfaction to the management and the employees of The Townsman Press, too. Such awards as these give ample proof that the expenditures we have made in the last four years in new type and new machinery were wisely made.

The same facilities that have helped these boys produce their prize-winning publications are available to you for your printing needs. Don't hesitate to call on us for advice and suggestions in any of your printing problems.
